

What is your habit?
あなたの習慣は何？

Name( )

〈Step 1〉 Read Ms. Sakaguchi's speech. Then, answers four questions.

Ms. Sakaguchi's speech

I'm talking about my habit. My habit is eating natto every morning. I started the habit when I was in first grade at university. I keep having the habit because natto is healthy food and cheap. But, it has one problem. I get bored about eating it every morning. This is my habit.

Q&A

1. What is Ms. Sakaguchi's habit?

_____.

2. When did she start the habit?

_____.

3. Why does she keep having the habit?

_____.

4. What is one problem about the habit?

_____.

〈Step 2〉 Think about your habit and answer the questions. Then, make a follow-up question about the habit.

Q&A

1. What is your habit?

_____.

2. When did you start the habit?

_____.

3. Why do you keep having the habit?

_____.

4. Do you like the habit?

_____.

Follow-up question: 習慣に関して、他の人に聞きたい質問を考えよう。

(Step 2 の 1 から 4 の質問以外で)

_____.

〈Step 3〉 Talk about your habit with your friend !

Model dialog

(会話の始め方)

A: Hello, how are you?

B: I'm (good / happy / sleepy / not bad/ bad). And you?

A: I'm (good/ happy / sleepy / not bad / bad).

A: Let's talk about our habits.

B: Ok!

A: What is your habit?

B: My habit is ① eating natto every morning.

A: Oh, your habit is eating natto every morning.

B: When did you start the habit?

A: ② When I was in first year at university, I started the habit.

B: When you were in first year at university. (Rejoinders)

Why do you keep having the habit?

A: ③ Because natto is healthy food and cheap.

B: (Rejoinders) 〈follow-up question〉 What is the tip to keep having the habit?

A: The tip is enjoying the smell of natto.

B: Do you like the habit?

A: (Yes, I do. / No, I don't)

A と B を交代する。

tip: こつ、smell: におい

Rejoinders

Uh huh.

Really?

I see.

Me, too.

(会話の終わり方)

A: Ok! Nice talking with you.

B: You, too.

Note: 友達の習慣

Name	What	When	Why	Others<follow-up question>
Ex) Kyoko	Eating natto	When she was in first grade at university	Healthy food and cheap	Tip: Enjoying the smell

